Prime Minister’s National ICT Scholarship Program has been a flagship HRD initiative of National ICT R&D Fund. Program’s out-reach to talented students of underserved areas has made it a true success story. National ICT R&D Fund has been a scholarship awarding partner of NUST since 2007.

Prime Minister’s National ICT Scholarship Program (PMNICTSP) is funded by National ICT R&D Fund, Ministry of Information Technology. The program covers admission and tuition fee, boarding and lodging, book allowance, food allowance and stipend for students to pursue four year undergraduate degrees offered by Pakistani Institutes/Universities in ICT disciplines.

"Having run the Program for 8 years and before going any further the need has been felt at the policy level to revamp the Program for its utmost efficacy. It is expected that through the redesign of the program, quality shall be further improved and shall have more value addition for the beneficiaries. It is due to this reason that the scholarships for the year 2015 will not be available under this Program".

A Guide to International Scholarships and Financial Aid

Purpose of guide

Studying abroad can be a daunting task given the high costs involved that one has to pay in terms of one’s tuition, accommodation and travelling. From application to acceptance, the process of applying to foreign universities is a rigorous and challenging task but what really makes it perturbing is the harsh reality that even after getting accepted and being given a partial grant/scholarship most of us find it virtually impossible to attend these colleges and universities. When it comes to searching for foreign scholarships there are a lot of myths surrounding it and it is generally believed that only the gifted students are given scholarship which is actually not the case. This guide is designed to provide guidance to cadets who are seeking admissions in foreign universities and are looking to find ways to fund their education.
Some Important Terminologies

Financial aid is money lent or given to you to help you pay for college. Whereas, Grants and scholarships are kinds of financial aid that you don’t have to pay back. That’s why they are called gift aid. All kinds of students get gift aid. Most grants are awarded based on financial need. But a good portion of gift aid is awarded for academic achievement. If you’re thinking about going to college, you should definitely apply for grants and scholarships. Remember, though, that gift aid rarely covers the entire cost of college. It’s just part of the picture — a picture that may include loans, family savings and other sources of money.

A word of Caution It is important to understand that scholarships/financial aids and grants are fluid phenomena which means the application process, deadlines, eligibility criterion and the amount of scholarships are subject to revision and change. Besides, each university or a scholarship program has its own application process and varies from one to another. Therefore, in this guide the details are not given. Only a brief introduction with the link to the web portal to the respective scholarship/financial aid is provided and students are advised to explore and discuss with the career counseling cell for further help.

American Universities Scholarships

Scholarships and grants in American universities and colleges are usually given after getting acceptance in the college/university applied at.
